

General Statement of Safety Compliance

Copernicus Toys is committed to our products' safety. We are testing products and working with our suppliers to gather information on all items we sell. On January 30, the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) delayed for one year, until February 10, 2010, the enforcement of the third-party testing and certification requirements. However, many of our products have either been tested or are in the testing process. We are making accessible General Certificates of Compliance (GCCs) as the information becomes available.

Our GCCs and safety documents are online here. We will be updating this database frequently. Please contact us with any questions about our products.
